

ROBINSON HUNT SPREADS IN MIDWEST

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Democrats Make Quick Comeback to Relief Fund-Vote Buying

WASHINGTON—It cannot be said that Democratic campaign strategists are not fast on the come-back.

Last week Republican Chairman Henry Fletcher convened a press conference at which he expressed the solemn opinion that the Democratic regime is "buying" the election through relief and recovery expenditures.

"The President," he said, "ought to do something about it."

Three hours later Jimmy Byrnes, South Carolina's astute chairman of the Senate's campaign fund investigating committee, announced that agents were being sent into Pennsylvania and Delaware—two Republican strongholds—to inquire into reports of huge secret Republican slush funds.

Or, in other words—check and double-check.

To the Republican outcry of Democratic campaign boodle, the Democrats reply with a Senate probe into alleged Republican misconduct.

There is an inside ironic angle to the investigation in Pennsylvania.

Last Spring, during and after the Republican Senatorial primary, Governor Pinchot not only charged his successful opponent David Aiken Reed, with excessive campaign expenditures, but secretly besought the aid of the President and Senate Progressive leaders for a Congressional inquiry.

Pinchot's sensational accusations played a large role in the authorization of the probing body.

Today, Pinchot is on the side of the fence to be investigated. Reversing a life-long political enmity with Reed, he is warmly backing him against Joseph F. Guffey, Democratic candidate.

In politics, as in the barnyard, chickens have a habit of coming home to roost.

Attention! Railroads

Chairman Jesse Jones was expounding on his favorite current topic, the importance of extending the life of the RFC when it expires next January.

"A big holler would go up all over the country if that isn't done," he observed solemnly.

"Well, what is there left for the RFC to do?" he was asked.

"The biggest thing we can do now," Jesse said, "is to straighten out the real estate and real estate mortgage business."

"What about the railroads?" "Hub," Jesse sniffed. "We already have them."

Three in One

Big Jim Farley has worked out a neat and secret little plan for increasing the expected Roosevelt vote of confidence in November.

He is holding up postmasterhips until elections are over.

Three votes, reasons Jim, are better than one. As long as a long list of candidates hope for appointment they will support the Democratic ticket. Afterward they may not.

EBERT IS PUT IN CHARGE OF PUBLIC HALL

Elected by Trustees of Monumental Association as Meeting is Conducted; Ward and New Superintendent Added to Board.

Drastic reorganization of the board of trustees governing Memorial Hall took place Wednesday evening when members of the Pickaway-co Monumental association met after the installation of officers of Howard Hall post, American Legion.

Edward C. Ebert and Ralph Ward were elected trustees to fill vacancies left by the resignation of Paul Betz and A. J. Ford. The resignations of Mr. Betz and Mr. Ford were accepted at Wednesday's meeting.

EBERT SUPERINTENDENT

Mr. Ebert was then named superintendent of Memorial Hall, an important task Ebert in accepting the superintendency returns to a job he held for four years until January 1, 1934, when he was replaced.

Other trustees of Memorial Hall are William Betts, Jr., president, Joseph M. Lynch, and G. W. Trimmer, the only surviving member of Groce post, G. A. R.

About 40 members of the Legion took part in the installation ceremony which saw Mr. Ebert, past commander of the post, as installing officer.

LITTLETON COMMANDER

The new officers are Frank S. Littleton, commander; Morris Boggs, first vice commander; Fred Dauenhauer, second vice commander; James Shea, adjutant; Christian Schwarz, treasurer; Henry Mason, chaplain, and Ralph Beck and Ralph Nessell, sergeants-at-arms.

William Betts, Jr., who retired after an active year as commander, gave a brief resume of the post's activities during his term and thanked the members for their loyal support and co-operation.

The committee headed by Lawrence E. Goeller has already started to make arrangements for the Armistice day celebration although plans have not progressed far enough for any announcement of what will feature the celebration. After the installation and meeting of the Monumental association lunch and refreshments were served.

FEVER EPIDEMICS CLOSE 3 SCHOOLS

Southern Ohio Counties Scene of Action; Seasonal, Health-ers Report.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 18.—An increase of nearly 200 in the number of scarlet fever cases in the state, described as "seasonal" by state health authorities, was disclosed today by the health department.

Dr. C. C. Beale, county health commissioner, said Thursday that only a few scattered cases of scarlet fever can be found in Pickaway-co. "They are seasonal," he declared.

ment as the schools in three villages of Ohio closed as the result of sudden outbreaks of the malady.

The health report revealed that the number of cases now prevalent stood at 648 as compared to 450 late in September.

As the state authorities compiled their statistics, news was received from Stockport, in Morgan-co, and from Bidwell and Porter in Gallia-co that schools there were closed as precautionary measures.

Eight students were said to be ill in Bidwell and Porter and it was feared that one of them may die.

Dr. Findley Van Orsdall, head of the communicable disease division of the health department, said, however, that the increase of scarlet fever cases was seasonal and normal for this period of the year.

REPUBLICANS PLAN RALLIES

Series of Meetings Through County to Leap Up To Herbert Talk Here Nov. 3.

While Pickaway-co's Democratic organizations have been bringing noted speakers into this city for addresses, the Republican organization has not been sitting idly by but has embarked upon a county-wide program which will see much activity in the ranks of the G. O. P. between now and election day, Nov. 6.

The first of the series will be staged at Ashville Oct. 24, where Justin W. Harding will be the

The series will be concluded Saturday, Nov. 3, in this city with Paul M. Herbert, candidate for lieutenant governor, as the principal speaker. The location of the meeting here has not been announced.

EAGLES, NOW FREE OF DEBT, PLANNING HUGE CELEBRATION

Circleville Aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles, is planning a big fire next Tuesday, Oct. 23, but the fire is a new kind; notes of indebtedness against the organization will be destroyed.

The affair is being termed an "out of debt" party with a buffet lunch and other features planned. Cards are being mailed this week to the order's 250 members.

Sixteen months ago the lodge was in serious circumstances financially but splendid work on the part of the officers, including the trustees headed by E. H. Rausenberger, wiped out outstanding bills. Today, the local aerie has progressed far enough that it is contemplating increasing sick and death benefits.

Officers include Hugh McManamy, president; William McLaughlin, past worthy president; Edson Miller, vice president; Charles Garner, chaplain; Isaac Carpenter, inner guard; Alex Unverzagt, outer guard; E. H. Rausenberger, Iley Greeno, and C. C. Porter, trustees, and H. R. White, secretary.

Police Chief Warns Early Celebrators

Police Chief W. H. Warner urged youths of the city who have already started Halloween depredations to refrain or suffer the consequences.

It is all right, the chief declared, to celebrate at the right time and in the right way, but to start now is too much.

PAUL HERBERT 'DARES' DAVEY

Asks In Paulding-Co Address What Has Happened To Libel Action.

LABOR FOR DONAHEY

"Reckless Borrower" Charge Hurdled By Candidate.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 18.—Another lance was hurled at Martin L. Davey, Democratic gubernatorial nominee, today by his persistent financial critic, Paul E. Herbert, G. O. P. candidate for lieutenant governor.

In a campaign speech in Paulding-co the Republican office-seeker demanded to know "what has happened to Davey's threatened suit for libel?"

"In Akron on Oct. 11," Herbert stated, "I characterized Davey as a reckless borrower and questioned the advisability of giving him the power to appoint a state bank superintendent."

"That same night," Davey had the effrontery to claim that my address was libelous and to threaten that proper action will be taken in due course."

SHOULD ACT NOW

"I contend that the time for Davey to take his 'proper action' is right now when he is a candidate for governor, and before the people go to the polls in November to name a governor."

Herbert then asserted that if the Democratic nominee challenges him to prove his remarks in court "he will wait until a day or two before election, hoping to conceal the truth from the electorate."

The candidacy of Sen. Simeon D. Fess, Republican, sustained a severe jolt when William Green, A. E. of L. president, appealed to the organized labor vote to turn thumbs down on the senior senator and support his Democratic opponent, ex-Governor Vic Donahey. Green said Fess' voting record on questions favored by organized labor was unsatisfactory.

DRIVE ON RECKLESS TRUCKERS GOES ON

The drive to end reckless operation of trucks on the highways of Pickaway-co was continuing today with three arrests and subsequent fines reported in the office of Justice of the Peace H. O. Eveland.

Arrests were made by Deputy Miller Fissell and Highway Patrolman Frank Crume.

Ronald Shy, of Urbana; John Baus, of Columbus, and Wilbur Funk, Jr., of Mt. Sterling, paid fines of $10 and costs in Eveland's court. Shy and Baus were arrested for reckless operation while Funk was fined for failing to have a light on his trailer.

Grover Mace, alias George Mace, of Tarlton, was in the county jail Thursday in default of $500 bond after being bound to the grand jury on charges of assault and battery filed by his wife in Justice of Peace Eveland's court. Mace was arrested Wednesday afternoon.

CARROLLTON, Oct. 18.—Refusing the pleas of five men accused of firing three one room school houses that sentences be suspended after they pleaded guilty. Judge George O. Canaga of Harrison-co today had meted out prison terms of from one to 10 years to each of the men.

The men: William Grimes, 55; Charles Grices, 30; Frank Tomazin, 38; Clarence Rush, 45; and David Shearer, 30, admitted burning the school houses as a protest against the state-wide centralization plan, where one room schools were abandoned and the children taken by bus to larger and better equipped buildings.

Judge Canaga, sitting in the case on special appointment, ordered the men taken to the Ohio penitentiary tomorrow.

MRS. STOLL'S CAPTOR SEEN IN OHIO, REPORT

Purvis, Federal Chief, Sets Up Office in Indianapolis to Lead Effort; Believe Youthful Abductor May Be in Chicago; Reported in Toledo, Too

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 18.—From a small apartment in the heart of Indianapolis today radiated a far flung manhunt along a maze of leads for Thomas H. Robinson, Jr., wanted as the kidnaper of Alice Speed Stoll of Louisville.

In this apartment Robinson held his wealthy socialite prisoner six days, until his wife brought him $50,000 ransom money paid over by the Stolls. Then he fled.

The whole middle west today was on the lookout. A motorist was shot and gravely wounded near Canton, Ill., last night by a man who he said resembled photographs of Robinson. Some time earlier he had been reported at Peoria and at Bushnell. All roads were patrolled for the suspect.

STORM, QUAKE RAVAGE WEST

Flood, Similar To That of New Year's, Feared; Quake Causes No Damage.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 18.—Intermittent rain continued to fall here early today, reviving fears of southern California residents of a flood similar to that which brought death and destruction to the Los Angeles metropolitan area on New Year's day this year. An earthquake shock early today sent many residents fleeing to the streets in the rain.

The storm, which broke over southern California 24 hours ago today, apparently had taken a toll of at least one life, and caused damage estimated in excess of $100,000.

More than two inches of rain had fallen during the last 24 hours.

Marguerite Clark, 9, of Montrose, was the reported flood victim. The child was said to have

FIRE INSPECTOR ASKS AUTHORITY

Baer Says He Orders Places Cleaned Up But Cannot Force Work Done.

Councilmen took part in a brief session Wednesday evening, all the business being transacted in less than 30 minutes.

John S. Baer, inspector for the fire department, asked council to give him some kind of power to force persons whom he has warned to clean up their properties to eliminate fire hazards.

"Now," Mr. Baer said, "I can tell them to clean up but there is no way I can force them to do so."

Council was uncertain what steps it could take so referred the matter to Solicitor Carl Leist to investigate the legal angle.

An ordinance to appropriate $50 to pay a legal adviser for Safety Director L. T. Shaner in the recent hearing before the civil service commission in the appeal of Officer Carl K. Radcliff was read for the first time. C. A. Leist appeared in the hearing for Mr. Shaner.

Councilman W. M. Reid was excused from the meeting because of illness.

friend who reported seeing him in a railroad station there caused Toledo - Cincinnati train to be searched twice in a futile hunt for the kidnaper.

Near Bloomington, Ind., roads were barricaded following a report the fugitive had been sighted there, just 100 miles from the spot where Mrs. Robinson with the captive, Mrs. Stoll and two others were found by federal agents Tuesday night.

Melvin Purvis, department of justice chief for this territory, established himself at Indianapolis with a staff.

Chicago remained a focal point in the search. The youthful kidnaper formerly worked at the Century of Progress there and recently telephoned from there to his father at Nashville. The father at Nashville hazarded a guess that his son might return to Chicago.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 18.—Government exhibit number one, Mrs. Frances A. Robinson, slender emaciated-faced mother of a three-year-old baby was in the Jefferson-co jail today.

The dark-haired girl was under $50,000 bail charged with aiding her husband, the missing Thomas H. Robinson, Jr., of Nashville, in kidnapping Mrs. Alice Stoll, young Louisville society woman.

Her father-in-law, Thomas H. Robinson, Sr., was placed under a similar bond in Nashville, Tenn., charged with a part in a crime.

AIDED BY STOLLS

Mrs. Robinson occupied an unprecedented position as a defendant in a kidnapping case. The rescued victim and her influential family have openly befriended her cause.

"Mrs. Stoll frankly termed her a 'protector' while she was imprisoned for six days in a hideaway in Indianapolis."

Mrs. Robinson was headed for the Stoll home in Louisville in an automobile with the kidnapped woman on Tuesday night when federal agents arrested her at Scottsburg, Ind.

It was through her delivery of the $50,000 ransom money demanded by her crack-pot husband that the victim was eventually returned.

Federal agents admitted Mrs. Robinson refused to accompany her husband when he fled with the ransom money.

But the law is down on the books and Mrs. Robinson faces a stiff penalty—possibly death—if she is convicted under the new "Lindbergh law" recently passed by congress seeking to eliminate the kidnapping racket.

NEW STORY TOLD

A new version of what happened in Indianapolis when Robinson fled with most of the ransom money from the hideaway where he had kept Mrs. Stoll captive for six days, was revealed today by Director of Safety Dunlap Wakefield of Louisville.

The story, given authorities by Mrs. Stoll and Mrs. Robinson, portrayed the kidnaper's wife as braving the wrath of her husband in order to win the freedom of the victim.

"Robinson, shortly after his wife arrived in the Indianapolis apartment with the $50,000 ransom, wanted to leave and take Mrs. Stoll with him," said the safety director. "He also demanded Mrs. Robinson accompany him." The kidnaper became enraged. He threatened the life of Mrs. Stoll. He said if they would not go with him he would tie up Mrs. Stoll and leave her in a closet in the apartment.

LEFT HOME ALONE

Mrs. Robinson pleaded with him, according to Mrs. Stoll and Mrs. Robinson, and the kidnaper finally

CROP PROGRAM TO LOSE ONLY FEW SIGNERS

16,423 Vote For Program; Nearly All Hope To Again Receive Benefits.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 18.—Although more than 15,000 of Ohio's farmers voted "no" to a proposal to retain the federal corn, wheat and hog reduction program in the state next year, there will be no great decrease in the number signing AAA contracts in 1935.

The AAA so far has distributed $9,000,000 to the 65,500 contract holders, with additional payments for this year expected to boost the total to $17,000,000 for crop reductions.

This huge sum was noted by Professor John W. Wuchet, agricultural extension agent at Ohio State University, as the main basis for his prediction that most of the farmers would "go along" in 1935, whether they voted for or against the AAA in the poll recently completed among the state's 88 counties.

16,423 FAVORED

The poll, one of a series to be conducted throughout the nation by the Federal government, showed 16,423 farmers for the continuance and 11,646 against.

Wuchet also declared that information obtained from various county agricultural agents showed that sentiment of farmers toward the program was such that all wanted to derive the benefits of the plan if one was put through for next year, although many of them felt that they could get more for their products if the production decreases were lifted.

Under the AAA program a processing tax of 30 cents a bushel on wheat, and $2.25 a hundredweight on hogs was levied from millers and packers. The funds received from such taxes were used to pay farmers for wheat and corn and hogs which they did not raise. The limitation quotes being based on the amounts the farmers had produced on the average over a five year period.

"Many of the farmers feel," Wuchet said, "that, considering drought and economic conditions, they would have been able to get more for their products if the processing taxes had been lifted. I do not know whether that a assumption would have been true or not."

He indicated that the sentiment was gaining, however, and might make itself felt in the national conference to be held between federal agricultural experts and farmers in Washington this fall before the 1935 program is formulated.

DONOHOO REPRESENTATIVE
Harry A. Donohoo, farmer from Blanchester, Clinton-co, and president of the Clinton-co Corn-Hog Production Control association, will be Ohio's representative to that conference.

Wuchet said he believed the poll on the AAA continuance was misleading to some extent due to reports from various sections that farmers objecting to the program mobilized to register their complaints at the polls, while many of the farmers who were completely satisfied with the plan remained at home.

"Only about 45 per cent of the contract holders, or those eligible to vote, went to the polls," Wuchet pointed out. "If the voting had been heavier, I feel that the majority for continuance would have been much greater."

by this one mistake. Don't make it!

Read about a test which has told parents a lot.

Why does a mother's watchfulness and care sometimes fail to help the boy or girl whose bowels are not regular?

Often it's because the average mother gives any laxative the family may be using.

The doctor would give a liquid laxative of suitable ingredients, suitable strength, and in suitable amount.

Are You Making This Mistake?

It is not wise to give laxatives of adult strength to a child, just because you give them less frequently or in less amounts. Stomach upsets and bowel troubles of growing boys and girls can often be traced to this unwise practice.

Try this, instead: Stop all use of mineral drugs, whether they are salts, pills, tablets, or "candy" form. Even once a month is too often to give any child a cathartic strong enough for adults.

Give that bilious boy or girl a gentle liquid laxative when constipated, and a little less if dose is repeated until bowels seem to be moving regularly and thoroughly without need of help.

What to Use

been swept away by raging flood waters as she returned from school.

Donald Butterworth, 9, also was reported missing.

The La Crescenta-Montrose district, which was hardest hit by the New Year's flood, faced the brunt of this storm.

Numerous homes were damaged by the waters which rushed down the steep canyon walls in that vicinity.

A new storm of near cloudburst proportions struck the Eagle and Pickens canyon sections near Montrose early today, the police reported.

It was reported several families were marooned, and that every available man was being used in rescue work in that section. Families were being warned to leave their homes.

Sections of Long Beach were inundated.

Many streets in Los Angeles and Hollywood were completely flooded, although traffic moved at an almost normal rate. The storm was accompanied by a light earthquake in the Long Beach suburban area; a miniature tornado at Inglewood, another suburb, and by a washout on the Pacific Ocean off San Pedro.

IT is not enough for us to know banking; we want you to know banking, too.

To carry out this idea, we are going to discuss publicly, now and then, the principles of sound banking. We shall keep a memorandum of some of the more frequent and important questions that our customers ask daily at the officers' desks and the tellers' windows, and answer them in these columns for everybody.

We are going to do this because we firmly believe that the true strength of this bank lies just as much in the intelligence and loyalty of our customers as it does in our own assets and careful management.

Hallowe'en Mischief

HOW far shall our boys and girls be allowed to go when they break loose with Hallowe'en pranks? And this question rises on more nights than simply the last one of October. The spirit of Hallowe'en fun may begin weeks before, and end up only when cold weather comes. Cool nights put kick into the youngsters, and the early dark gives them a protection against pursuers.

Boys and girls go through a period when they like mischievous acts. It seems humorous and delightful to many of them to break windows in sheds and unoccupied buildings, to destroy fruits and vegetables, and make outlandish noises.

So a boy will go along a house with a sharp stick with which he damages window screens. Or he rattles blinds so violently as to loosen the slats. Or he tips over porch chairs so forcibly that the arms are damaged. Such acts make the boy world feel a sense of its power and independence. It likes the feeling of defying the stern rule of the parents and police, and boys have the feeling that when they combine in their lawless acts, they can run the neighborhood.

If the irate householder, disgusted by these doings, seeks to pursue these marauders, he will merely get out of breath. They will dodge up some alley or behind some bush, and vanish into thin air.

Hallowe'en fun is apt to degenerate into hoodlumism. The boy who starts out for an evening of pranks with his mates, frequently finds he has lined up with some predatory gang. They start in a spirit of mere fun, but it sometimes ends with breaking into some house or store and stealing things. It is better to reason with the boys, and show them what a nuisance they make of themselves if they do real mischief. Also how they are headed for Old Man Trouble if they get in with bad companions.

Belgium will dig a hole 11,480 feet deep, but not to throw old razor blades into.

Silent Homes

A "house of silence" has been made possible by the ingenuity of the building trades and manufacturers of building materials and equipment. One built for exhibition purposes is absolutely soundproof, no sounds penetrating from the outside, nor from room to room or floor to floor.

For such a home all in this deafening era have yearned. Think of the undisturbed slumbers that would be possible. Imagine the concentration and profound cogitation that would be induced. What a haven for frayed nerves and ringing ears after a day in the factory or in the midst of the hustle and bustle of business!

But for all its alluring advantages the "house of silence" could not be adopted over night. A period of acclimatization would be necessary. City dwellers, who have become inured to the din of traffic can recall the experience of trying to spend a soothing night in the country and being unable to sleep because of the silence or the absence of the accustomed noises. A night in a noiseless house might invite not only insomnia but haunted sensations.

But if modern man is ever to get away from the din and racket that is shattering his nervous system it will have to be through soundproof rooms rather than from noise abatement.

Note on advertising: Paul Revere made the famous ride, but Longfellow made the ride famous.

One reason why the modern daughter doesn't tell mother everything is because there isn't much you can tell a modern mother.

Stormy Weather

CHAPTER XXI

In the six months I had been at Sherwood Forest I had never seen so many visitors as there were the week-end after Seifert Vail was murdered. Persons in New York suddenly remembered long neglected friends in the sanatorium and came by train and motor to see them. They were rewarded with the current gossip about the case, but by Sunday everyone was growing tired of the subject. It was so hot that day that the weather displaced crime as the most popular topic of conversation. Patients and visitors sat on cottage porches in artificial breezes, reading with morbid interest of the record-breaking temperature in the city.

Nothing at all happened on Sunday. It was too hot for anything to happen. Joe was not arrested. He was permitted to go about his duties on the grounds, and the deputy assigned to watch him did so from a rocking chair on the porch of the main building.

The gardener had become a local celebrity because of his long interrogation by the sheriff, and patients previously unaware of his existence stopped and spoke to him.

When I went to see Mark in the morning, he seemed oppressed by the heat.

"Even Sue's cracking up, aren't you, sweetheart?" he said in extenuation. "Can you believe it, Bob, she actually snapped at me this morning."

Sue looked charmingly confused. She protested, "You shouldn't tell me, Mr. Hillyer. I've already apologized."

"It's all right to tell old Bob," he answered. "I wouldn't betray you to John or Loren."

I didn't like very much the way Sue laughed at that, and I told her it was insulting.

"Heavens, are you getting touchy, too?" she asked. She became suddenly grave. "The murder's demoralizing everyone here. Nothing's been normal since it happened."

"How could it be?" asked Mark, and then answered his rhetorical question. "Murder isn't normal. It's a dislocation—a violent derangement of the normal—a reminder that we aren't so far from savagery as we like to believe."

He warned to his theme. "The act of murder is like a stone dropped in a pool. The first shock, the splash, is only the beginning. The disturbance spreads until the whole pool is agitated. In this case, the figurative pool is Sherwood Forest. Those waves, those widening circles will touch all of us before it's over."

Sue looked at him with apprehension in her eyes.

"All of us?" she repeated. "You can see the first effects yourself. None of us quite trusts anyone else. One person has run away. Another, afraid of being involved, has lied. Everyone's scheming to keep clear. Some of us, probably, innocent of any connection with the crime, fear that the investigation will bring other things to light. And all this may be only the beginning."

"He's a philosopher as well as a detective," I remarked, but Sue still looked troubled.

I left Mark feeling depressed and irritable. The day was long and unutterably wearisome. There was no one to talk to. Loren had vanished, and Sue went driving with John Calvert in the afternoon. I read the newspapers, worked a crossword puzzle, ate my meals without appetite and finally, early in the evening, fell into a troubled sleep.

From an uneasy dream I was abruptly jerked into full, terrified consciousness. I found myself sitting upright in bed with the memory of a scream heard or dreamed of, still ringing in my brain. My scalp was tingling and my eyes watering. For long, long minutes I sat breathing quickly, feeling my heart pounding against my ribs. It was a dark night, and through my window I could see nothing except the silent, dark bulk of the woods against the lighter earth.

If I had actually heard a cry, it was not repeated. Finally I sank back in bed and, glancing at my wrist watch, turned over to return to sleep. It was 11:30 then. Until two o'clock I lay awake, starting at every sound, tossing on the hot sheets. In the morning I was still tired and heavy-eyed.

In the foyer on my way to breakfast I met James and Loren Ruxton. The latter came hurrying up to me and asked excitedly, "Have you heard the news?"

I fail to understand how anyone can entertain such an idea. My fear returned, stronger than before. The banker's sunken eyes looked into the distance beyond us as though he, too, were seeing something terrifying.

"I don't see," one of the patients began, but Loren interrupted. "Don't let it worry you, Uncle Jim," he said soothingly.

"I worry because I have imagination," Ruxton answered grimly. "I'm a sick man and a selfish one. I don't like crimes and investigation. Joe Barker is nothing to me. I told him only yesterday that I would see he was properly defended if I were convinced of his innocence and he were arrested. But I would have been relieved by some

A patient, taking his morning walk, saw something floating on the water. It was the gardener's body.

"No," I said. I began to feel the same sensation of nameless dread I had experienced in the night.

"Joe's skipped," said Loren. "Run away?" I said. "But he was under guard!"

"The deputy got tired of sitting outside his room and ducked over to the kitchen to get a drink of water. Joe must have climbed out the window as soon as the deputy's back was turned. They didn't discover he was gone until an hour ago."

Two patients on their way to the dining room stopped to listen. One of them asked, "Did he take his clothes?"

"No," Loren answered. He added, "I hear the sheriff thinks he's gone to New York to join his girl friend, Felipa."

The other patients looked at each other. "That settles it," one said. "That proves he's guilty. Finn should have arrested him, don't you think, Mr. Ruxton?"

The gray-haired man to whom everyone naturally deferred coughed slightly. His face was very grave as he replied.

"You believe he left voluntarily? Even a gardener would not be so stupid as to sign his own death warrant by running away when there was no proof against him."

Why Faulty Teeth Are So Common in Children

Too Often Parents Mistake First Molars As "Temporary" Teeth, Says Authority

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

United States senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health,
New York City

IT IS common knowledge that dental decay is among the most prevalent of all diseases. A large percentage of school children suffer from this affliction. In most instances, the pity of it is, teeth decay can be traced to neglect of the teeth or to improper dental care.

More than 60 per cent of all the children in the United States under the age of fourteen years have one or more defective first molars, the first of the back teeth. Frequently the significance of trouble in these teeth is overlooked. As a matter of fact, it is the common cause of many serious dental disorders.

The Six-Year Molars

Too often the parent believes the six-year molar is a temporary tooth. It is the first permanent tooth to appear and, if neglected, is liable to give more trouble than any other tooth in the mouth. Unfortunately, not all young children are taught properly to clean the mouth and teeth. In many cases the teeth become hopelessly diseased before the child is taken to a dentist.

Unless proper dental care is given at an early age, the six-year molar becomes defective and decay quickly spreads. Though only a small cavity forms, it is sufficient to harbor food. This food decomposes and permits the growth of destructive bacteria. Soon there is a large cavity which continues to increase in size until the tooth becomes inflamed and aches. Unless the cavity is filled at once, an abscess or other infection may occur which prevents repair of the tooth.

Of all the teeth the molars are the most important. Faulty development or loss of these teeth leads to imperfect functioning of the jaws.

Nature has provided each molar with deep grooves and "cusps" or prominences. The cusps of the upper teeth bite into the grooves of the lower, so that there is perfect interlocking of the teeth as the jaws come together. In this way food is properly ground and crushed in the process of chewing. If one or two molars are out of position the cusps and grooves will not properly interlock and the whole side of the mouth will be thrown out of line.

Regular visits to the dentist by young children will prevent serious dental decay. Repair of cavities and other dental disturbances at an early age will insure the youngster of normal and healthy teeth when he grows older. The child should be taken to the dentist as soon as the first molars appear through the gums. If there is a defect in the formation of the enamel of these teeth or other teeth in the mouth it should be attended to at once.

Faulty teeth in childhood create a serious handicap in life. In the battle of life children should be given every advantage. I am glad to say that many communities have school dental clinics where the children's teeth are cleaned and fillings are inserted as soon as cavities appear. Where these facilities are lacking it is important that the parent obtain the necessary dental care for the child.

PATTERN 9177

If the schoolgirl of the family asks for something "different but not too different" in her very essential wool dress, can you blame her? Schoolgirl frocks have a habit of looking for all the world like uniforms. But no one could ever accuse this charming model of being that. It has chic raglan sleeves, set off by buttons back and front—a belt which slips under the unusual pointed front panel, also trimmed by a button—and who thinks girls shouldn't put their hands in these smart pockets? We suggest making up a stock of Peter-Pan collars, in white, beige or brown linen to top a frock of brown and beige wool.

Pattern 9177 may be ordered only in sizes 10, 12, 14, 16 and 18. Size 12 requires 2 yards 54 inch fabric and 1/4 yard 36 inch contrasting.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for EACH MARIAN MARTIN pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, the STYLE NUMBER and SIZE of each pattern.

AT THE GRAND

Frankie Darro, who plays an important role in "The Merry Frinks," now showing at the Grand Theatre, is only seventeen years old but few of the oldesters on the First National lot have had longer screen experience.

Frankie started at the old Ince Studio twelve years ago and has been working steadily ever since. Among his best known pictures are "Tug Boat Annie," "The Sin of Madelon Claudet," "Mayor of Hell," "Mad Genius," "Public Enemy" and "Wild Boys of the Road." His work in the latter film won him new laurels and the part of one of the Frinks in his current picture.

AT THE CLIFTONA

Psychic phenomena, the awe of the unknown, and the uncanny manifestations of the spirit world are combined in the R KO-Radio thriller, "Their Big Moment," in which ZaSu Pitts and Slim Summerville are co-starred and which comes to the Cliftona Theatre Friday and Saturday.

The popular comedy team is seen as assistants to a vaudeville magician, The Great La Salle. Never before have these two artists been cast in roles more suited to their peculiar talents. As a fluttering feather-brain with jittery hands ZaSu gives another of her laugh-provoking performances, and Slim Summerville hands out more than his customary quota of chuckles—all of this being mingled with tense drama.

The Japs think their ruler a god. This makes them as funny as four other races you could mention.

Circleville High vs. Delaware High

Friday, October 19th - 3:00 P. M. - Athletic Field

If you would like to spend a couple of enjoyable hours, and a nominal portion of your money, we urge you to go down to the Athletic Field tomorrow afternoon and see the football game between Circleville High School and Delaware.

While our local team has not set the world afire with it's touchdown prowess so far this year, yet what they lack in that department they make up in spirit and enthusiasm of the first order. And we really owe it to the boys to turn out to the games and help in every way we can to bring them victories. They practice long and hard, devoting many hours of their time to unheralded preparation in order to give us the best entertainment possible, so we believe the least we can do is be on the sidelines tomorrow at 3 when the referee blows the whistle for the opening kickoff.

Schmidt Drives Buck Team Hard

COLUMBUS, Oct. 18.—Leaving no vital phase of football untouched, Coach Francis Schmidt of Ohio State university today prepared to round out a week's program for the Buckeye gridlers by continuing instruction in every department of the game in preparation for the intersectional clash with Colgate here Saturday.

Punts and passes, deceptive running plays, even kick offs were rehearsed as the team went through its paces yesterday. The frosh, who ripped into the varsity successfully when equipped with Illinois plays a week ago, were able to gain little ground using Colgate formations.

PLANS UNCERTAIN

To some observers, the mixed-up practice session was a strategic move to throw Andy Kerr's Red Raiders off the scent. Coach Schmidt, in stressing no particular department of the game, left the type of game he would employ Saturday open to speculation.

Although Dick Reekin, driving half back, and John Bettridge, reserve in the same position, received minor injuries during the scrimmage session yesterday, it was expected they would be back into the line up today.

The Colgate gridgers will arrive in Columbus at 8 a. m. tomorrow, planning to taper off their practice with a brief workout at 2 p. m. in the Ohio Stadium.

HAMILTON, N. Y., Oct. 18.—Headed by Coach Andy Kerr and three assistants, the Colgate football team of 33 entrains this evening for Columbus where the Red Raiders clash with Ohio State on Saturday in one of the country's major intersectional classics.

LIONS CARRY ON

BOSTON, Oct. 18.—The Detroit Lions continued their onslaughts for National football league honors Wednesday evening driving out a 24-0 victory over the supposedly strong Redwings. Dutch Clark, Glenn Presnell and Ernie Caddell led the offense of the unbeaten Lion team.

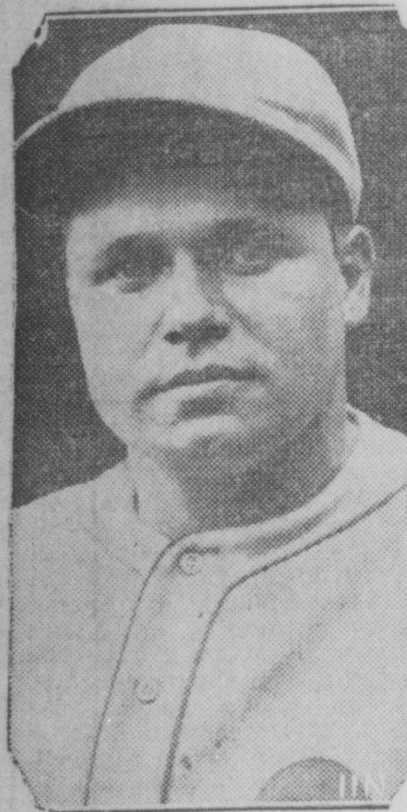

The Detroiters are not yet scored on this season.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 18.—A 15 yard touchdown dash by Bertie Feathers and a 26-yard place kick by Jack Manders gave the Chicago Bears, national professional football league champions, a 10 to 6 victory over the Green Bay Packers last night at Fair Park.

The game was an exhibition charity affair.

Miss Helen Cellar, Montclair, will spend the week-end in Wooster and attend homecoming at Wooster college. She will be the guest of Mrs. Alta Ibrig and daughter, Miss Pauline.

TIGER LEADER BEST IN LOOP

Cochrane Voted Most Valuable By Writers; Gehring Is Second In Poll.

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—Gordon S. (Mickey) Cochrane, Detroit catcher who piloted the Tigers to a pennant victory in his first year as manager, today was named the most valuable player in the American league for 1934.

In making the award a committee of the Baseball Writers' Association of America gave Cochrane 67 votes, two more than were received by Charlie Gehring, second baseman of the Tigers who placed second.

The committee placed Vernon Gomez, star Yankee pitcher, third and Lynwood (Schoolboy) Rowe, sensational Detroit hurler, fourth. Rowe, the young man who this year tied the American league record by winning 16 consecutive games, trailed Gomez by one vote.

Eight ballots were cast with Cochrane being named first on six, Gehring on one and Rowe on one, thus all eight first places, counting 10 points each, went to Detroit players.

Nineteen players in all won points in the voting. Nineteen others received honorable mention for their 1934 performance.

About This And That

BY THE SECOND GUESSER

BUCKEYES NEED CENTER

What kind of a basketball team Ohio State will put on the floor this year depended greatly on the discovery of a lengthy center—Coach Hal Olson was searching the ranks of the N. H. High school today for a lanky man who can handle the tip-off situation. The first practice session was held Wednesday evening in preparation for a strenuous season starting Dec. 8 against Ohio University of Athens. At this moment it looks like Earl Thomas, of Ashland, who starred in the state tournament a couple of years ago, will have the inside track for the tip-off job when football season is over and he is able to report.

19 ON SCHEDULE

The Buckeyes have 19 games on the schedule including contests with Ohio U., Temple, Maryland, Cincinnati, Marietta, Carleton, Michigan, Illinois, Chicago, Northwestern, Notre Dame, and Purdue—Most of the Big Ten schools will be played twice.

BEITNER IS CAPTAIN

Veterans returning to the squad include Captain Bill Beitner, Red Wilson, Whittling, Wendt, Laybourne, Busch Cox and Rhodes. Tippy Dye, Pomerooy flash, who is also on the football squad, will report when that season is over.

WHAT OF BISHOPS?

It is noticed that Ohio Wesleyan, victor over the Buckeyes for two successive years, is not on the schedule this season—Ohio has a number of sophomores to report, most of whom will be heard from.

FRIDAY GAME STARTS AT 3

Ross and Wirt To Handle Whistles; Starting Lineup Believed Set.

Circleville football fans will be given the opportunity to cast their eyes for the first time this year on two Central Buckeye league teams when the Tigers meet the team representing Delaware Willis high. The game is booked for the high school field at 3 o'clock.

Two efficient officials, Rodney Ross, South high, Columbus, coach, and Jim Wirt, Adrian college grad, and a member of the Ohio Conference Officials association, being in charge.

The Tigers will probably lineup as follows: Friley and Grant at ends, Roth and Griffith at tackles, Rod Watts and Plum at guards, Osborne at center, Bell at quarterback, Mader and Coleman at the halves and Speakman at fullback.

Followers of the CBL give the Tigers a good chance to win the game.

Bowling News

Two Circleville bowling teams gave pressmen of the Columbus Dispatch and Citizen lessons Wednesday evening in interesting matches.

The Lemons defeated the Dispatch outfit 2675 to 2179, while the Bakers accumulated 2590 against 2054 for the Citizen leggers.

Scores of the local bowlers were:

Lemons, F. Lynch, 535; Kelzsch, 506; Watts, 542; Delong, 535; Lemon, 557.
Bakers, Boggs, 504; Riggins, 577; Maloney, 440; Campbell, 523; Baker, 546.

BISHOPS PLANNING AERIAL OFFENSIVE

DELAWARE, Oct. 18.—Indications that Ohio Wesleyan's Bishops would attempt their forward passing game against Syracuse Saturday at all costs were given today as Coach George Gauthier today put John Heinlen, another passer and Delaware sophomore, on the list to make the trip.

Heinlen was active in the aerial attacks against the freshmen in the scrimmages this week and by his aim won the right to go to Syracuse.

NEW HOLLAND

Mrs. Edna White of Columbus, spent a few days last week with Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln Kirkpatrick and grandson, Tom Jr.

William Russell Peterson of Austin was a week-end guest of Mr. and Mrs. Percy May.

Misses Lillie and Patsy Briggs, Mrs. Forrest McCune, Mrs. Percy May, Mrs. Floyd James and daughter, Betty were business visitors in Columbus, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Cokrell and daughter of Columbus were week-end guests of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Armstrong.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Wright of Circleville; Mr. and Mrs. Ercell Wright and family spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Tarbill and family of Atlanta.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Scholler and children of Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. Eugene McClain and daughter of Greenfield and Mrs. Blanche McClain were entertained to dinner Sunday, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cranston McQuay and daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hurtt and children and Mrs. Walter Petty were Tuesday guests of Albert Watson and family in Columbus.

WASH OUT 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES

Win Back Pep . . . Vigor . . . Vitality

Medical authorities agree that your kidneys contain 15 MILES of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy.

If you have trouble with too frequent bladder passages with scanty amount causing burning and discomfort, the 15 MILES of kidney tubes need washing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and vitality, getting up at night, lumbar, swollen feet and ankles, rheumatic pains and dizziness. If kidneys don't empty 3 pints every day and get rid of 4 pounds of waste matter, your body will take up those poisons causing serious trouble. It may knock you out and lay you up for many months. Don't wait. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS . . . a doctor's prescription . . . which has been used successfully by millions of kidney sufferers for over 40 years. They give quick relief and will help to wash out the 15 MILES of kidney tubes.

But don't take chances with strong drugs or so-called "kidney cures" that claim to fix you up in 15 minutes, for they may seriously injure and irritate delicate tissues. Insist on DOAN'S PILLS . . . the old reliable relief that contain no "dope" or habit-forming drugs. Be sure you get DOAN'S PILLS at your druggist. © 1934, Foster-Milburn Co.

287 IN COUNTY DRAW AGE PENSIONS

$3,493 SUM COMING HERE

A total of 287 persons from Pickaway-co are now on the old age pension roll of the state of Ohio, and more are being added at the rate of 100 a month, according to announcement today of T. D. Krinn, investigator in charge of the old age pension office for this county.

These now drawing pensions get a total of $3493 a month from the state treasury under the terms of the law passed by the people at the election last November. Investigator Krinn said.

In proportion to its population this county is getting its full share of benefits under the pension law. Reports on the number of pensioners in the entire state as compiled by M. L. Brown, chief of the division of aid for the aged of the state welfare department, show this.

12,000 IN STATE

Mr. Brown's report shows that there are approximately 12,000 persons now drawing pensions in the state, and that they get a total of about $180,000 a month.

"This is a very good record when all of the facts are considered. The pension law was passed less than a year ago.

Mr. Brown is now making a survey of conditions over the state and of the appropriation needs of the division.

"Thus, when the legislature holds its next regular session in January, 1935, instead of just getting a start on old age pensions, as would be the case already in existence—one which will have dispensed a total of about $3,000,000 in pensions by that time. Preliminary organization work will all be done, instead of taking up the first several months of 1935; and the legislature will have before it concrete suggestions for appropriations and any changes needed to strengthen the law, in stead of estimates and guesswork as would be the case if emergency action had not been taken by leaders of the pension movement and Governor White last winter.

LACK OF FUNDS

"Our biggest handicap to date has been lack of funds for administrative purposes, which we expect the next legislature will remedy. Another drawback is that many persons were unfamiliar with provisions of the law, and we had to educate them on it.

"Despite these handicaps, through the energetic action of Mr. Brown, first as leader of the proponents of the pension law in the election last year, and later in behalf of the emergency appropriations before the legislature at a time when the state was faced with a serious shortage of funds and later as chief of the division and through the sympathetic action of Governor White, the worthy needy aged of the state will receive approximately $5,000,000 in pensions this year, although they ordinarily could not have expected to start receiving benefits until 1935."

MICHIGAN JUSTICE

Numerous extortion letters and threatening notes have been received by Henry Ford and his son, but only once before was a man convicted. He was Waslov Simsek, a Czechoslovakian, who served two years in prison on a charge of attempting to extort $1,050,000 from Edsel Ford on threat of blinding his wife and children.

Several purported plots to kidnap Edsel Ford or his children have been "uncovered," but as far as can be known, there was never an actual attempt to "snatch" a member of the famous family.

Unnecessary and preventable pain deserve little sympathy. Today, a "periodical sufferer" courts danger through the old-fashioned superstition, "pain is natural."

Gets 10 Years for Threatening Edsel Ford

Fourteen hours after he had been picked up for sending a threatening note to Edsel Ford, son of the auto magnate, 20-year-old Edward Lickwala, Detroit factory worker, was sentenced to 10 years in Leavenworth prison. Above, are shown Lickwala and a reproduction of part of his extortion letter demanding $5,000 on threat of death to the younger Ford.

Mrs. Stoll's Captor Is Seen

decided to leave alone. He gave Mrs. Robinson $500 from the ransom sum and left in the same Ford V-8 car as he used in the kidnapping. It bore the Illinois license 331-700.

"Shortly afterwards, Mrs. Stoll telephoned her home in Louisville from the home of the Rev. E. Arnold Clegg where Mrs. Robinson took her after Robinson had fled."

Mrs. Robinson, recovered from her hysterical condition displayed during her 20-hour interrogation by federal agents, appeared self-possessed but indignant.

She inquired of Jailer Martin J. Conn's if her relatives had sent an attorney to represent her or if Mrs. Stoll was coming to visit her.

When arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Eugene Dailey, the kidnaper defendant pleaded not guilty to the charge of "Aiding and abetting" the crime.

"I don't know anything about it," she declared in a tense, shrill (and indignant) voice. "I want an attorney. And I would like to get in touch with Mrs. Stoll—right away."

In asking the commissioner to place a high bail figure in the case, U. S. Attorney Thomas J. Sparks said:

"This is not an ordinary case. It is one in which the entire community has been shocked. We know that Mrs. Stoll was taken from her home and shamefully treated by the kidnaper."

HEARING OCT. 26

A hearing on the charge was set by Commissioner Dailey for Oct. 26.

In her public debut as the first principal arrested in the Stoll kidnapping case, Mrs. Robinson was dressed inexpensively but in good taste. She wore a blue-gray woolen suit with a jacket trimmed with a black fur collar. Her unbobbed black hair showed from beneath a chic, black turban with a white band around the crown.

She fingered nervously her black purse with long, thin fingers. The fingernails were painted red and indicated recent manicuring.

She attempted to screen her face from the artificial starlight created in the federal hearing chamber by the bursting of the photographers' flash-bulbs. She finally gave it up.

A shift of federal agents guarded the prisoner in the county jail during the night and day to prevent any attempt at suicide.

Mrs. Robinson expressed a wish after breakfast to see her mother. If the latter arrives from Nashville, the prisoner's request will be granted.

NO INTERVIEWS

Federal authorities turned down requests of newspapermen to interview the prisoner.

"I have learned from my brother that Mrs. Robinson was a very much-needed protector of Mrs. Stoll during her imprisonment and on the way home from Louisville," said George Stoll, brother of Berry Stoll, husband of the victim.

"She refused to participate in the ransom money and came to Louisville at her own very risk. The family is solicitors about her welfare and hopes she may be given every possible consideration. We feel she has been very fine to us."

U. S. Attorney Sparks was asked as to the reason Mrs. Robinson accompanied Mrs. Stoll on her homeward trip.

"She may have gotten cold feet or had a change of heart," he said.

The federal attorney said he had information to show Mrs. Robinson had arranged with her husband for the rental of the hideaway in Indianapolis several weeks before the kidnapping.

Sparks said that he planned to confer with Federal Judge Charles I. Dawson today regarding the calling of a special grand jury immediately to consider indictments.

He said he had not yet decided as to the exact penalty he would ask for Mrs. Robinson and her father-in-law in the event they were indicted and put up on trial.

"However, on the basis of the facts in the case against Robinson, I shall insist upon the death penalty," he added.

He pointed out that the Lindbergh law, under which the Robinson's are charged, originally at the minimum penalty as life imprisonment but through amendment added the penalty of death if the victim was harmed.

Sparks said he would ask the death penalty for Robinson because Mrs. Stoll had been struck on the head by the kidnaper.

Chief of Detectives Edward T. McElliot, of Louisville, was credited with first specific information concerning the identity of the kidnaper. When Thomas H. Robinson was named as intermediary in the ransom note, it was learned young Robinson had been arrested previously in Nashville, had been employed by the Stoll Oil Refining company, and that his description fitted that of the kidnaper.

Fingerprints of Robinson found on the piece of brown wrapping paper which covered the piece of pipe with which Mrs. Stoll was struck, were taken to the department of justice in Washington and checked with the police fingerprints of Robinson in Nashville.

ROBINSON HUNT SPREADS IN MIDWEST

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

Democrats Make Quick Comeback to Relief Fund-Vote Buying

WASHINGTON—It cannot be said that Democratic campaign strategists are not fast on the come-back.

Last week Republican Chairman Henry Fletcher convened a press conference at which he expressed the solemn opinion that the Democratic regime is "buying" the election through relief and recovery expenditures.

"The President," he said, "ought to do something about it."

Three hours later Jimmy Byrnes, South Carolina's astute chairman of the Senate's campaign fund investigating committee, announced that agents were being sent into Pennsylvania and Delaware—two Republican strongholds—to inquire into reports of huge secret Republican slush funds.

Or, in other words—check and double-check.

To the Republican outcry of Democratic campaign boodles, the Democrats reply with a Senate probe into alleged Republican misconduct.

There is an inside ironic angle to the investigation in Pennsylvania.

Last Spring, during and after the Republican Senatorial primary, Governor Pinchot not only charged his successful opponent David Aiken with excessive campaign expenditures, but secretly besought the aid of the President and Senate Progressive leaders for a Congressional inquiry.

Pinchot's sensational accusations played a large role in the authorization of the probing body.

Today, Pinchot is on the side of the fence to be investigated. Reversing a life-long political enmity with Reed, he is warmly backing him against Joseph F. Guffey, Democratic candidate.

In politics, as in the barnyard, chickens have a habit of coming home to roost.

Attention! Railroads

Chairman Jesse Jones was expounding on his favorite current topic, the importance of extending the life of the RFC when it expires next January.

"A big boiler would go up all over the country if that isn't done," he observed solemnly.

"Well, what is there left for the RFC to do?" he was asked.

"The biggest thing we can do now," Jesse said, "is to straighten out the real estate and real estate mortgage business."

"What about the railroads?" "Huh," Jesse sniffed. "We already have them."

Three in One

Big Jim Farley has worked out a neat and secret little plan for increasing the expected Roosevelt vote of confidence in November.

He is holding up postmasterships until elections are over.

Three votes, reasons Jim, are better than one. As long as a long list of candidates hope for appointment they will support the Democratic ticket. Afterward they may not.

Twenty-eight years old, Smith was brought to the legal division of the NRA, in its early days, by Donald Richberg. EBERT IS PUT IN CHARGE OF PUBLIC HALL

Elected by Trustees of Monumental Association as Meeting is Conducted; Ward and New Superintendent Added to Board.

Drastic reorganization of the board of trustees governing Memorial Hall took place Wednesday evening when members of the Pickaway-co Monumental association met after the installation of officers of Howard Hall post, American Legion.

Edward C. Ebert and Ralph Ward were elected trustees to fill vacancies left by the resignation of Paul Betz and A. J. Ford. The resignations of Mr. Betz and Mr. Ford were accepted at Wednesday's meeting.

EBERT SUPERINTENDENT

Mr. Ebert was then named superintendent of Memorial Hall, an important task. Ebert in accepting the superintendency returns to a job he held for four years until January 1, 1934, when he was replaced.

Other trustees of Memorial Hall are William Betts, Jr., president, Joseph M. Lynch, and G. W. Trimmer, the only surviving member of Groce post, G. A. R.

About 40 members of the Legion took part in the installation ceremony which saw Mr. Ebert, past commander of the post, as installing officer.

LITTLETON COMMANDER

The new officers are Frank S. Littleton, commander; Morris Boggs, first vice commander; Fred Dauenhauer, second vice commander; James Shea, adjutant; Christian Schwarz, treasurer; Henry Mason, chaplain, and Ralph Beck and Ralph Nessel, sergeants-at-arms.

William Betts, Jr., who retired after an active year as commander, gave a brief resume of the post's activities during his term and thanked the members for their loyal support and cooperation.

The committee headed by Lawrence E. Goeller has already started to make arrangements for the Armistice day celebration although plans have not progressed far enough for any announcement of what will feature the celebration.

After the installation and meeting of the Monumental association lunch and refreshments were served.

FEVER EPIDEMICS CLOSE 3 SCHOOLS

Southern Ohio Counties Scene of Action; Seasonal, Health-ers Report.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 18.—An increase of nearly 200 in the number of scarlet fever cases in the state, described as "seasonal" by state health authorities, was disclosed today by the health department.

Dr. C. C. Beale, county health commissioner, said Thursday that only a few scattered cases of scarlet fever can be found in Pickaway-co. "They are seasonal," he declared.

ment as the schools in three villages of Ohio closed as the result of sudden outbreaks of the malady.

The health report revealed that the number of cases now prevalent stood at 648 as compared to 450 late in September.

As the state authorities compiled their statistics, news was received from Stockport, in Morgan-co, and from Bidwell and Porter in Gallia-co that schools there were closed as precautionary measures.

Eight students were said to be ill in Bidwell and Porter and it was feared that one of them may die.

Dr. Findley Van Orsdal, head of the communicable disease division of the health department, said, however, that the increase of scarlet fever cases was seasonal and normal for this period of the year.

PONZI HOME BROKE

NAPLES, Oct. 18.—Declaring himself as penniless as when he left in 1904, Charles M. Ponzi, the "get rich quick" wizard who spent 12 years in a Massachusetts jail, returned to his homeland today.

Police subjected him to a thorough search and questioning when he disembarked from the liner Vulcania. He was held aboard the ship for an hour before he was allowed to land.

REPUBLICANS PLAN RALLIES

Series of Meetings Through County to Leap Up To Herbert Talk Here Nov. 3.

While Pickaway-co's Democratic organizations have been bringing noted speakers into this city for addresses, the Republican organization has not been sitting idly by but has embarked upon a county-wide program which will see much activity in the ranks of the G. O. P. between now and election day, Nov. 6.

The first of the series will be staged at Ashville Oct. 24, where Justin W. Harding will be the speaker.

UNDERWOOD IN ACTION

In an address at Thornville, Perry-co, Wednesday, Congressman Underwood termed Mr. Dunlap's accomplishments for the farmers of the nation as "a big zero," numerous other allegations concerning his record were recited by the Democratic nominee.

speaker; the second at New Holland Oct. 25 where John Vorvies will make the address; another at Williamsport Oct. 30 with Paul Selby as the speaker; at Five Points Oct. 31 with Judge Harry Jewell, of Delaware, as the orator.

The series will be concluded Saturday, Nov. 3, in this city with Paul M. Herbert, candidate for lieutenant governor, as the principal speaker. The location of the meeting here has not been announced.

Renick W. Dunlap, Kingston, who is waging a bitter campaign with Congressman Mel G. Underwood, is expected to appear in several of the county meetings while the party's candidates on the county ticket also to have part.

EAGLES, NOW FREE OF DEBT, PLANNING HUGE CELEBRATION

Circleville Aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles, is planning a big fire next Tuesday, Oct. 23, but the fire is a new kind; notes of indebtedness against the organization will be destroyed.

The affair is being termed an "out of debt" party with a buffet lunch and other features planned. Cards are being mailed this week to the order's 250 members.

Sixteen months ago the lodge was in serious circumstances financially but splendid work on the part of the officers, including the trustees headed by E. H. Rausenberger, wiped out outstanding bills, today the local aerie has progressed far enough that it is contemplating increasing sick and death benefits.

Officers include Hugh McManamy, president; William McLaughlin, past worthy president; Edson Miller, vice president; Charles Garner, chaplain; Isaac Carpenter, inner guard; Alex Unverzagt, outer guard; E. H. Rausenberger, Iley Greeno, and C. Porter, trustees, and H. R. White, secretary.

Police Chief Warns

Early Celebrators

Police Chief W. H. Warner urged youths of the city who have already started Halloween depredations to refrain or suffer the consequences.

It is all right, the chief declared, to celebrate at the right time and in the right way, but to start now is too much.

PAUL HERBERT 'DARES' DAVEY

Asks In Paulding-Co Address What Has Happened To Libel Action.

LABOR FOR DONAHEY

"Reckless Borrower" Charge Hurlled By Candidate.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 18.—Another lance was hurled at Martin L. Davey, Democratic gubernatorial nominee, today by his persistent financial critic, Paul E. Herbert, G. O. P. candidate for lieutenant governor.

In a campaign speech in Paulding-co the Republican office-seeker demanded to know "what has happened to Davey's threatened suit for libel?"

"In Akron on Oct. 11," Herbert stated, "I characterized Davey as a reckless borrower and questioned the advisability of giving him the power to appoint a state bank superintendent."

"That same night Davey had the effrontery to claim that my address was libelous and to threaten that 'proper action will be taken in due course.'"

SHOULD ACT NOW

"I contend that the time for Davey to take his 'proper action' is right now when he is a candidate for governor, and before the people go to the polls in November to name a governor."

Herbert then asserted that if the Democratic nominee challenges him to prove his remarks in court "he will wait until a day or two before election, hoping to conceal the truth from the electorate."

The candidacy of Sen. Simeon D. Fess, Republican, sustained a severe jolt when William Green, A. F. of L. president, appealed to the organized labor vote to turn thumbs down on the senior senator and support his Democratic opponent, ex-Governor Vic Donahey. Green said Fess' voting record on questions favored by organized labor was unsatisfactory.

DRIVE ON RECKLESS TRUCKERS GOES ON

The drive to end reckless operation of trucks on the highways of Pickaway-co was continuing today with three arrests and subsequent fines reported in the office of Justice of the Peace H. O. Eveland.

Arrests were made by Deputy Miller Fissell and Highway Patrolman Frank Crume.

Ronald Shy, of Urbana; John Baus, of Columbus, and Wilbur Funk, Jr., of Mt. Sterling, paid fines of $10 and costs in Eveland's court. Shy and Baus were arrested for reckless operation while Funk was fined for failing to have a light on his trailer.

Grover Mace, alias George Mace, of Tilton, was in the county jail Thursday in default of $500 bond after being bound to the grand jury on charges of assault and battery filed by his wife in Justice of Peace Eveland's court. Mace was arrested Wednesday afternoon.

FIVE WHO BURNED SCHOOLS FACE PEN

CARROLLTON, Oct. 18. Refusing the pleas of five men accused of firing three one room school houses that sentences be suspended after they pleaded guilty, Judge George O. Canaga of Harrison-co today had meted out prison terms of from one to 10 years to each of the men.

The men: William Grimes, 50; Charles Grimes, 30; Frank Tomazin, 38; Clarence Rush, 45; and David Shearer, 30, admitted burning the school houses as a protest against the state-wide centralization plan, where one room schools were abandoned and the children taken by bus to larger and better equipped buildings.

Judge Canaga, sitting in the case on special appointment, ordered the men taken to the Ohio penitentiary tomorrow.

MRS. STOLL'S CAPTOR SEEN IN OHIO, REPORT

Purvis, Federal Chief, Sets Up Office in Indianapolis to Lead Effort; Believe Youthful Abductor May Be in Chicago; Reported in Toledo, Too

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 18.—From a small apartment in the heart of Indianapolis today radiated a far flung manhunt along a maze of leads for Thomas H. Robinson, Jr., wanted as the kidnaper of Alice Speed Stoll of Louisville.

In this apartment Robinson held his wealthy socialite prisoner six days, until his wife brought him $50,000 ransom money paid over by the Stolls. Then he fled.

The whole middle west today was on the lookout. A motorist was shot and gravely wounded near Canton, Ill., last night by a man who he said resembled photographs of Robinson. Some time earlier he had been reported at Peoria and at Bushnell. All roads were patrolled for the suspect.

SEEN IN TOLEDO?

A taxicab driver who said he saw Robinson in Toledo and a friend who reported seeing him in a railroad station there caused a Toledo-Cincinnati train to be searched twice in a futile hunt for the kidnaper.

Near Bloomington, Ind., roads were barricaded following a report the fugitive had been sighted there, just 100 miles from the spot where Mrs. Robinson with the captive, Mrs. Stoll and two others were found by federal agents Tuesday night.

Melvin Purvis, department of justice chief for this territory, established himself at Indianapolis with a staff.

Chicago remained a focal point in the search. The youthful kidnaper formerly worked at the Century of Progress there and recently telephoned from there to his father at Nashville. The father at Nashville hazarded a guess that his son might return to Chicago.

OCTOBER 28 NAMED AS SCHOOLS SUNDAY

George McDowell, superintendent of Pickaway-co schools, announced Thursday that Sunday, Oct. 28, is "Schools Sunday" and he urged that ministers of the city and county devote part of their sermons and services to a discussion of the plight of the schools.

Literature and other information concerning the day can be obtained in Mr. McDowell's office.

STORM, QUAKE RAVAGE WEST

Flood, Similar To That of New Year's, Feared; Quake Causes No Damage.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 18.—Intermittent rain continued to fall here early today, reviving fears of southern California residents of a flood similar to that which brought death and destruction to the Los Angeles metropolitan area on New Year's day this year. An earthquake shock early today sent many residents fleeing to the streets in the rain.

The storm, which broke over southern California 24 hours ago today apparently had taken a toll of at least one life, and caused damage estimated in excess of $100,000.

More than two inches of rain had fallen during the last 24 hours.

Marguerite Clark, 9, of Montrose, was the reported flood victim. The child was said to have been drowned.

NEW STORY TOLD

A new version of what happened in Indianapolis when Helen Stoll fled with most of the ransom money from the hideaway where she had kept Mrs. Stoll captive for six days, was revealed today by federal agents.

The story, given authorities by Mrs. Stoll and Mrs. Robinson, portrayed the kidnaper as a brave man in order to win the freedom of the victim.

"Robinson, shortly after his wife arrived in the Indianapolis apartment with the $50,000 ransom, wanted to leave and take Mrs. Stoll with him," said the safety director. "He also demanded Mrs. Robinson accompany him."

"Mrs. Robinson protested at the kidnaper became enraged. He threatened his wife and also threatened the life of Mrs. Stoll. He said if they would not go with him he would tie up Mrs. Stoll and leave her in a closet in the apartment."

ROP PROGRAM TO LOSE ONLY FEW SIGNERS

16,423 Vote For Program;
Nearly All Hope To Again
Receive Benefits.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 18.—Although more than 15,000 of Ohio's farmers voted "no" to a proposal to retain the federal corn, wheat and hog reduction program in the state next year, there will be no great decrease in the number signing AAA contracts in 1935.

The AAA so far has distributed $9,000,000 to the 65,500 contract holders, with additional payments for this year expected to boost the total to $17,000,000 for crop reductions.

This huge sum was noted by Professor John W. Wuehler, agricultural extension agent at Ohio State University, as the main basis for his prediction that most of the farmers would "go along" in 1935, whether they voted for or against the AAA in the poll recently completed among the state's 88 counties.

16,423 FAVORED

The poll, one of a series to be conducted throughout the nation by the Federal government, showed 16,423 farmers for the continuance and 11,966 against.

Wuehler also declared that information obtained from various county agricultural agents showed that sentiment of farmers toward the program was such that all wanted to derive the benefits of the plan if one was put through for next year, although many of them felt that they could get more for their products if the production decreases were lifted.

Under the AAA program a processing tax of 30 cents a bushel on wheat, and $2.25 a hundredweight on hogs was levied from millers and packers. The funds received from such taxes were used to pay farmers for wheat and corn and hogs which they did not raise, the limitation quotes being based on

Desperadoes Escape Police Trap

Charles (Pretty Boy) Floyd

George (Baby Face) Nelson

Missouri state police have thrown out a dragnet in an effort to capture Charles (Pretty Boy) Floyd, left, southwestern outlaw, and two companions, one of them believed to be George (Baby Face) Nelson, right, gunman of the Dillinger gang, who shot their way out of a trap laid near the Iowa-Minnesota border by state officers.

the amounts the farmers had produced on the average over a five year period.

"Many of the farmers feel," Wuehler said, "that, considering drouth and economic conditions, they would have been able to get more for their products if the processing taxes had been lifted. I do not know whether that a assumption would have been true or not."

He indicated that the sentiment was gaining, however, and might make itself felt in the national conference to be held between federal agricultural experts and farmers in Washington this fall before the 1935 program is formulated.

DONOHOO REPRESENTATIVE

Harry A. Donohoo, farmer from Blanchester, Clinton-co., and president of the Clinton-co. Corn-Hog Production Control association, will be Ohio's representative to that conference.

Wuehler said he believed the poll on the AAA continuance was misleading to some extent due to reports from various sections that farmers objecting to the program mobilized to register their complaints at the polls, while many of the farmers who were completely satisfied with the plan remained at home.

Only about 45 per cent of the contract holders, or those eligible to vote, went to the polls," Wuehler pointed out. "If the voting had been heavier, I feel that the majority for continuance would have been much greater."

The continued opposition of many who did not sign crop reduction agreements was indicated in the results of an unofficial poll conducted among non-contract holders, who voted 1,058 to 320 against the AAA.

The usual care that a thoughtful mother gives her child, can be offset by this one mistake. Don't make it!

Read about a test which has told parents a lot.

Why does a mother's watchfulness and care sometimes fail to help the boy or girl whose bowels are not regular?

Often it's because the average mother gives any laxative the family may be using, whether they are salts, pills, tablets, or "ready" form. Even once a month is too often to give a child a cathartic strong enough for adults.

The doctor would give a liquid laxative of suitable ingredients, of suitable strength, and in suitable amount.

Are You Making This Mistake?

It is not wise to give laxatives of adult strength to a child, just because you give them less frequently or in less amounts. Stomach upsets and bowel troubles of growing boys and girls can often be traced to this unwise practice.

Try this, instead: Stop all use of mineral drugs, whether they are salts, pills, tablets, or "ready" form. Even once a month is too often to give a child a cathartic strong enough for adults.

Give that bilious boy or girl a gentle liquid laxative when constipated, and a little less if loose is repeated, until bowels seem to be moving regularly and thoroughly without need of help.

What to Use

Donald Butterworth, 9, also was reported missing.

The La Crescenta-Montrose district, which was hardest hit by the New Year's flood, faced the brunt of this storm.

Numerous homes were damaged by the waters which rushed down the steep canyon walls in that vicinity.

A new storm of near cloudburst proportions struck the Eagle and Pickens canyon sections near Montrose early today, the police reported.

It was reported several families were marooned, and that every available man was being used in rescue work in that section. Families were being warned to leave their homes.

Sections of Long Beach were inundated.

Many streets in Los Angeles and Hollywood were completely flooded, although traffic moved at an almost normal rate.

The storm was accompanied by a light earthquake in the Long Beach suburban area; a miniature tornado at Inglewood, another suburb, and by a washout on the Pacific Ocean off San Pedro.

Hallow'en Mischief

HOW far shall our boys and girls be allowed to go when they break loose with Hallow'en pranks? And this question rises on more nights than simply the last one of October. The spirit of Hallow'en fun may begin weeks before, and end up only when cold weather comes. Cool nights put kick into the youngsters, and the early dark gives them a protection against pursuers.

Boys and girls go through a period when they like mischievous acts. It seems humorous and delightful to many of them to break windows in sheds and unoccupied buildings, to destroy fruits and vegetables, and make outlandish noises.

So a boy will go along a house with a sharp stick with which he damages window screens. Or he rattles blinds so violently as to loosen the slats. Or he tips over porch chairs so forcibly that the flames are damaged. Such acts make the boy world feel a sense of its power and independence. It likes the feeling of defying the stern rule of the parents and police, and boys have the feeling that when they combine in their lawless acts, they can run the neighborhood.

If the irate householder, disgusted by these doings, seeks to pursue these marauders, he will merely get out of breath. They will dodge up some alley or behind some bush, and vanish into thin air.

Hallow'en fun is apt to degenerate into hoodlumism. The boy who starts out for an evening of pranks with his mates, frequently finds he has lined up with some predatory gang. They start in a spirit of mere fun, but it sometimes ends with breaking into some house or the theft of something. It is better to reason with the boys, and show them what a nuisance they make of themselves if they do real mischief. Also how they are headed for Old Man Trouble if they get in with bad companions.

Belgium will dig a hole 11,480 feet deep, but not to throw old razor blades into.

Silent Homes

A "house of silence" has been made possible by the ingenuity of the building trades and manufacturers of building materials and equipment. One built for exhibition purposes is absolutely soundproof, no sounds penetrating from the outside, nor from room to room or floor to floor.

For such a home, all in this deafening era have yearned. Think of the undisturbed slumbers that would be possible. Imagine the concentration and profound cogitation that would be induced. What a haven for frayed nerves and ringing ears after a day in the factory or in the midst of the hustle and bustle of business!

But for all its alluring advantages the "house of silence" could not be adopted over night. A period of acclimatization would be necessary. City dwellers who have become inured to the din of traffic can recall the experience of trying to spend a soothing night in the country and being unable to sleep because of the silence or the absence of the accustomed noises. A night in a noiseless house might invite not only insomnia, but haunted sensations.

But if modern man is ever to get away from the din and racket that is shattering his nervous system it will have to be through soundproof rooms rather than from noise abatement.

Note on advertising: Paul Revere made the famous ride, but Longfellow made the ride famous.

One reason why the modern daughter doesn't tell mother everything is because there isn't much you can tell a modern mother.

Stormy Weather

DEATH SONG

by JOAN CLAYTON AND MALCOLM LOGAN

CHAPTER XXI

In the six months I had been at Sherwood Forest I had never seen so many visitors as there were the week-end after Seifert Vail was murdered. Persons in New York suddenly remembered long neglected friends in the sanatorium and came by train and motor to see them. They were rewarded with the current gossip about the case, but by Sunday everyone was growing tired of the subject. It was so hot that day that the weather displaced crime as the most popular topic of conversation. Patients and visitors sat on cottage porches and artificial breezes reading with morbid interest of the record-breaking temperature in the city.

Nothing at all happened on Sunday. It was too hot for anything to happen. Joe was not arrested. He was permitted to go about his duties on the grounds, and the deputy assigned to watch him did so from a rocking chair on the porch of the main building. The gardener had become a local celebrity because of his long interrogation by the sheriff, and patients previously unaware of his existence stopped and spoke to him.

When I went to see Mark in the morning, he seemed oppressed by the heat.

"Even Sue's cracking up, aren't you, sweetheart?" he said in extension. "Can you believe it, Bob, she actually snapped at me this morning."

Sue looked charmingly confused. She protested, "You shouldn't tell on me, Mr. Hillyer. I've already apologized."

"It's all right to tell old Bob," he answered. "I wouldn't betray you to John or Loren."

I didn't like very much the way Sue laughed at that, and I told her it was insulting.

"Heavens, are you getting touchy, too?" she asked. She became suddenly grave. "The murder's demoralizing everyone here. Nothing's been normal since it happened."

"How could it be?" asked Mark, and then answered his rhetorical question. "Murder isn't normal. It's a dislocation—a violent departure from the normal—a reminder that we aren't so far from savagery as we like to believe."

He warned to his theme. "The accident is like a stone dropped in a pool. The first shock, the splash, is only the beginning. The disturbance spreads until the whole pool is agitated. In this case, the figurative pool is Sherwood Forest. Thus waves, those widening circles will touch all of us before it's over."

Sue looked at him with apprehension in her eyes.

"All of us?" she repeated.

"In one way or another. You can see the first effects yourself. None of us quite trusts anyone else. One person has run away. Another, afraid of being involved, has fled. Everyone's scheming to keep clear. Some of us, probably, innocent of any connection with the crime, fear that the investigation will bring other things to light. And all this may be only the beginning."

"He's a philosopher as well as a detective," I remarked, but Sue still looked troubled.

I left Mark feeling depressed and irritable. The day was long and uneventfully wearisome. There was no one to talk to. Loren had vanished, and Sue went driving with John Calvert in the afternoon. I read the newspapers, worked a crossword puzzle, ate my meals without appetite and finally, early in the evening, fell into a troubled sleep.

From an uneasy dream I was abruptly jerked into full, terrified consciousness. I found myself sitting upright in bed with the memory of a scream, heard or dreamed of, still ringing in my brain. My scalp was tingling and my eyes watering. For long, long minutes I sat bracing myself, feeling my heart pounding against my ribs. It was a dark night, and through my window I could see nothing except the silent, dark bulk of the woods against the lighter earth.

If I had actually heard a cry, it was not repeated. Finally I sank back in bed and, glancing at my wrist watch, turned over to return to sleep. It was 11:30 then. Until two o'clock I lay awake, starting at every sound, tossing on the bed sheets. In the morning I was still tired and heavy-eyed.

In the foyer on my way to breakfast I met James and Loren Ruxton. The latter came hurrying up to me and asked excitedly, "Have you heard the news?"

I fail to understand how anyone can entertain such an idea. My fear returned, stronger than before. The banker's sunken eyes looked into the distance beyond us as though he, too, were seeing something terrifying.

"I don't see," one of the patients began, but Loren interrupted. "Don't let it worry you, Uncle Jim," he said soothingly.

"I worry because I have imagination," Ruxton answered grimly. "I'm a sick man and a selfish one. I don't like crimes and investigation. Joe Barker is nothing to me. I told him only yesterday that I would see he was properly defended if I were convinced of his innocence and he was arrested. But I would have been relieved by some

A patient, taking his morning walk, saw something floating on the water. It was the gardener's body.

"No," I said. I began to feel that this would end. "Now—" he came to a full stop. "Now I believe that Seifert Vail's murder was only a beginning. There will be worse—much worse—to come."

Those prophets who forecast the destruction of Israel must have looked like James Ruxton as he stood before us, his white hair a little disordered, his eyes burning with conviction, uttering his dreadful prophecy. We were silent, uneasy. No one answered him.

Two patients on their way to the dining room stopped to listen. One of them asked, "Did he take his clothes?"

"No," Loren answered. He added, "I hear the sheriff thinks he's gone to New York to join his girl friend, Felipa."

The other patients looked at each other. "That settles it," one said. "That proves he's guilty. Finn should have arrested him, don't you think, Mr. Ruxton?"

The gray-haired man to whom everyone naturally deferred coughed slightly. His face was very grave as he replied.

"You believe he left voluntarily? Even a gardener would not be so stupid as to sign his own death warrant by running away when there was no proof against him."

Why Faulty Teeth Are So Common in Children

Too Often Parents Mistake First Molars As "Temporary" Teeth, Says Authority

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
 United States senator from New York
 Former Commissioner of Health,
 New York City

IT IS common knowledge that dental decay is among the most prevalent of all diseases. A large percentage of school children suffer from this affliction.

In most instances, the pity of it is that decay can be traced to neglect of the teeth or to improper dental care.

More than 50 per cent of all the children in the United States under the age of fourteen years have one or more defective first molars, the first of the back teeth.

Frequently the significance of trouble in these teeth is overlooked. As a matter of fact, it is the common cause of many serious dental disorders.

The Six-Year Molars
 Too often the parent believes the six-year molar is a temporary tooth. It is the first permanent tooth to appear and, if neglected, is liable to give more trouble than any other tooth in the mouth.

Unfortunately, not all young children are taught properly to clean the mouth and teeth. In many cases the teeth become hopelessly diseased before the child is taken to a dentist.

Unless proper dental care is given at an early age, the six-year molar becomes defective and decay quickly spreads. Though only a small cavity forms, it is sufficient to harbor food. This food decomposes and permits the growth of destructive bacteria.

Soon there is a large cavity which continues to increase in size until the tooth becomes loosened and aches. Unless the cavity is filled at once, an abscess or other infection may occur which prevents repair of the tooth.

Of all the teeth the molars are the most important. Faulty development or loss of these teeth leads to imperfect functioning of the jaws.

Nature has provided each molar with deep grooves and "cusps" or prominences. The cusps of the upper teeth bite into the grooves of the lower, so that there is perfect interlocking of the teeth as the jaws come together. In this way food is properly ground and crushed in the process of chewing.

If one or two molars are out of position the cusps lock and the whole side of the mouth will be thrown out of line.

Regular visits to the dentist by young children will prevent serious dental decay. Repair of cavities and other dental disturbances at an early age will insure the youngster of normal and healthy teeth when he grows older.

The child should be taken to the dentist as soon as the first molars appear through the gums. If there is a defect in the formation of the enamel of these teeth or other teeth in the mouth it should be attended to at once.

Faulty teeth in childhood create a serious handicap in life. In the battle of life children should be given every advantage. I am glad to say that many communities have school dental clinics where the children's teeth are cleaned and fillings are inserted as soon as cavities appear.

Where these facilities are lacking it is important that the parent obtain the necessary dental care for the child.

PATTERN 9177

If the schoolgirl of the family asks for something "different but not too different" in her very essential wool dress, can you blame her? Schoolgirl frocks have a habit of looking for all the world like uniforms. But no one could ever accuse this charming model of being that. It has chic raglan sleeves, set off by buttons back and front—a belt which slips under the unusual pointed front panel, also trimmed by a button—and who thinks girls shouldn't put their hands in these smart pockets? We suggest making up a stock of Peter-Pan collars, in white, beige or brown linen to top a frock of brown and beige wool.

Pattern 9177 may be ordered only in sizes 10, 12, 14, 16 and 18. Size 12 requires 2 yards 54 inch fabric and 1/4 yard 36 inch contrasting.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for EACH MARIAN MARTIN pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, the STYLE NUMBER and SIZE of each pattern.

THE FALL AND WINTER ISSUE of the MARIAN MARTIN PATTERN BOOK is now off the press. It is big fashion news—and delightful reading—filled with stunning and easy-to-make patterns for street and house dresses, blouses, skirts, lingerie, sports clothes—all the essentials of a smart outfit for matron, maiden or little child. PRICE OF BOOK FIFTEEN CENTS. BOOK AND PATTERN TOGETHER TWENTY-FIVE CENTS.

AT THE GRAND

Frankie Darro, who plays an important role in "The Merry Frinks," now showing at the Grand Theatre, is only seventeen years old but few of the oldsters on the First National lot have had longer screen experience.

Frankie started at the old Ince Studio twelve years ago and has been working steadily ever since. Among his best known pictures are "Tug Boat Annie," "The Sin of Madelon Claudet," "Mayor of Hell," "Mad Genius," "Public Enemy" and "Wild Boys of the Road." His work in the latter film won him new laurels and the part of one of the Frinks in his current picture.

AT THE CLIFTONA

Psychic phenomena, the awe of the unknown, and the uncanny manifestations of the spirit world are combined in the R KO-Radio thriller, "Their Big Moment," in which Zasu Pitts and Slim Summerville are co-starred and which comes to the Cliftona Theatre Friday and Saturday.

The popular comedy team is seen as assistants to a vaudeville magician, The Great La Salle. Never before have these two artists been cast in roles more suited to their peculiar talents. As a fluttering feather-brain with jittery hands, Zasu gives another of her laugh-provoking performances, and Slim Summerville hands out more than his customary quota of chuckles—all of this being mingled with tense drama.

The Japs think their ruler a god. This makes them as funny as four other races you could mention.

Circleville High vs. Delaware High

Friday, October 19th - 3:00 P. M. - Athletic Field

If you would like to spend a couple of enjoyable hours, and a nominal portion of your money, we urge you to go down to the Athletic Field tomorrow afternoon and see the football game between Circleville High School and Delaware.

While our local team has not set the world afire with its touchdown prowess so far this year, yet what they lack in that department they make up in spirit and enthusiasm of the first order. And we really owe it to the boys to turn out to the games and help in every way we can to bring them victories. They practice long and hard, devoting many hours of their time to unheralded preparation in order to give us the best entertainment possible, so we believe the least we can do is be on the sidelines tomorrow at 3 when the referee blows the whistle for the opening kickoff.

Schmidt Drives Buck Team Hard

COLUMBUS, Oct. 18.—Leaving the final phase of football unchanged, Coach Francis Schmidt of the State university today prepared to round out a week's program for the Buckeye gridlers by continuing instruction in every department of the game in preparation for the inter-sectional clash with Colgate here Saturday.

Punts and passes, deceptive running plays, even kick offs were rehearsed as the team went through its paces yesterday. The frosh, who ripped into the varsity successfully when equipped with blindfold a week ago, were able to gain little ground using Colgate formations.

Struck in the head with a pitched ball during a game in Winnipeg, Man., Jimmie Fox, above, star first baseman of the Athletics, was reported suffering dizziness and drowsiness at Seattle, Wash. It was feared the career of the slugger, who was to tour the Orient this winter with the American League All-Stars, would be seriously affected by the accident.

PLANS UNCERTAIN

To some observers, the mixed-up practice session was a strategic move to throw Andy Kerr's Red Raiders off the scent. Coach Schmidt, in stressing no particular department of the game, left the final of game he would employ Saturday open to speculation.

Although Dick Reekin, driving half back, and John Bettridge, reserve in the same position, received minor injuries during the scrimmage session yesterday, it was expected they would be back into the line up today.

The Colgate gridlers will arrive in Columbus at 8 a. m. tomorrow, planning to taper off their practice with a brief workout at 2 p. m. in the Ohio Stadium.

HAMILTON, N. Y., Oct. 18.—Headed by Coach Andy Kerr and three starters, the Colgate football team of 33 entrains this evening for Columbus where the Red Raiders clash with Ohio State on Saturday in one of the country's major inter-sectional clashes.

LIONS CARRY ON

BOSTON, Oct. 18.—The Detroit Lions continued their onslaughts for National football league honors Wednesday evening driving out a 24-0 victory over the supposed strong Redskins. Dutch Clark, Glenn Presnell and Ernie Caddell led the offense of the unbeaten Lion team.

The Detroiters are not yet scored on this season.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 18.—A 15-yard touchdown dash by Bertie Feather, and a 26-yard place kick by Jack Manders gave the Chicago Bears, national professional football league champions, a 10 to 6 victory over the Green Bay Packers last night at Fair Park.

The game was an exhibition charity affair.

Miss Helen Cellar, Montclair, N. J., will spend the week-end in Wooster and attend homecoming at Wooster college. She will be the guest of Mrs. Alta Ihrig and daughter, Miss Pauline.

Grid Stars to Shine in Saturday's Big Battles

Fordham vs. St. Mary's at New York, Tulane and Georgia at New Orleans, and Chicago's meeting with Indiana at Chicago, are among the football classics being dished out next Saturday for the grid fans. These stars of the east, west and south will be in the midst of things.

TIGER LEADER BEST IN LOOP

Cochrane Voted Most Valuable By Writers; Gehring Is Second In Poll.

(CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—Gordon S. (Mickey) Cochrane, Detroit catcher who piloted the Tigers to a pennant victory in his first year as manager, today was named the most valuable player in the American League for 1934.

In making the award a committee of the Baseball Writers' Association of America gave Cochrane 67 votes, two more than were received by Charlie Gehring, second baseman of the Tigers who placed second.

The committee placed Vernon Gomez, star Yankee pitcher, third and Lynwood (Schoolboy) Rowe, sensational Detroit hurler, fourth. Rowe, the young man who this year tied the American league record by winning 16 consecutive games, trailed Gomez by one vote.

Eight ballots were cast with Cochrane being named first on six, Gehring on one and Rowe on one, thus all eight first places, counting 10 points each, went to Detroit players.

Nineteen players in all won points in the voting. Nineteen others received honorable mention for their 1934 performance.

About This And That

BY THE SECOND GUESSER

BUCKEYES NEED CENTER

What kind of a basketball team Ohio State will put on the floor this year depended greatly on the discovery of a lengthy center. Coach Hal Olson was searching the ranks of the N. High school today for a lanky man who can handle the tip-off situation. The first practice session was held Wednesday evening in preparation for a strenuous season starting Dec. 8 against Ohio University of Athens. At this moment it looks like Earl Thomas, of Ashland, who starred in the state tournament a couple of years ago, will have the inside track for the tip-off job when football season is over and he is able to report.

19 ON SCHEDULE

The Buckeyes have 19 games on the schedule, including contests with Ohio U., Temple, Maryland, Cincinnati, Marietta, Charleston, Michigan, Illinois, Chicago, Northwestern, Notre Dame, and Purdue. Most of the Big Ten schools will be played twice.

BEITNER IS CAPTAIN

Veterans returning to the squad include Captain Bill Beitner, Red Wilson, Whittinger, Wendt, Laybourne, Busch, Cox and Blakes. Tippy Dye, Pomeroy flash, who is ab on the football squad, will report when that season is over.

WHAT OF BISHOPS?

It is noticed that Ohio Wesleyan, victor over the Buckeyes two successive years, is not on the schedule this season. Ohio has a number of sophomores to report, most of whom will be heard from.

FRIDAY GAME STARTS AT 3

Ross and Wirt To Handle Whistles; Starting Lineup Believed Set.

Circleville football fans will be given the opportunity to cast their eyes for the first time this year on two Central Buckeye league teams when the Tigers meet the team representing Delaware Willis high. The game is booked for the high school field at 3 o'clock.

Two efficient officials, Rodney Ross, South high, Columbus, coach, and Jim Wirt, Adrian college grad, and a member of the Ohio Conference Officials association, being in charge.

The Tigers will probably lineup as follows: Friley and Grant at ends, Roth and Griffith at tackles, Rod Watts and Plum at guards, Osborne at center, Bell at quarterback, Mader and Coleman at the halves and Speakman at fullback.

Followers of the CBL give the Tigers a good chance to win the game.

Bowling News

Two Circleville bowling teams gave pressmen of the Columbus Dispatch and Citizen lessons Wednesday evening in interesting matches.

The Lemons defeated the Dispatch outfit 2675 to 2179, while the Bakers accumulated 2590 against 2054 for the Citizen leggers.

Scores of the local bowlers were:

Lemons, F. Lynch, 535; Kolzsch, 506; Watts, 542; D'Long, 535; Lemon, 557.
Bakers, Boggs, 504; Riggins, 577; Maloney, 440; Campbell, 523; Baker, 546.

BISHOPS PLANNING AERIAL OFFENSIVE

DELAWARE, Oct. 18.—Indications that Ohio Wesleyan's Bishops would attempt their forward passing game against Syracuse Saturday at all costs were given today by Coach George Gauthier today put John Heinlen, another passer and Delaware sophomore, on the list to make the trip.

Heinlen was active in the aerial attacks against the freshmen in the scrimmages this week and by his aim won the right to go to Syracuse.

WASH OUT 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES

Win Back Pep... Vigor... Vitality

Medical authorities agree that your kidneys contain 15 MILES of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy.

If you have trouble with too frequent bladder passages with scanty amount causing burning and discomfort, the 15 MILES of kidney tubes need washing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and vitality, setting up nights, humors, swollen feet and ankles, rheumatic pains and dizziness.

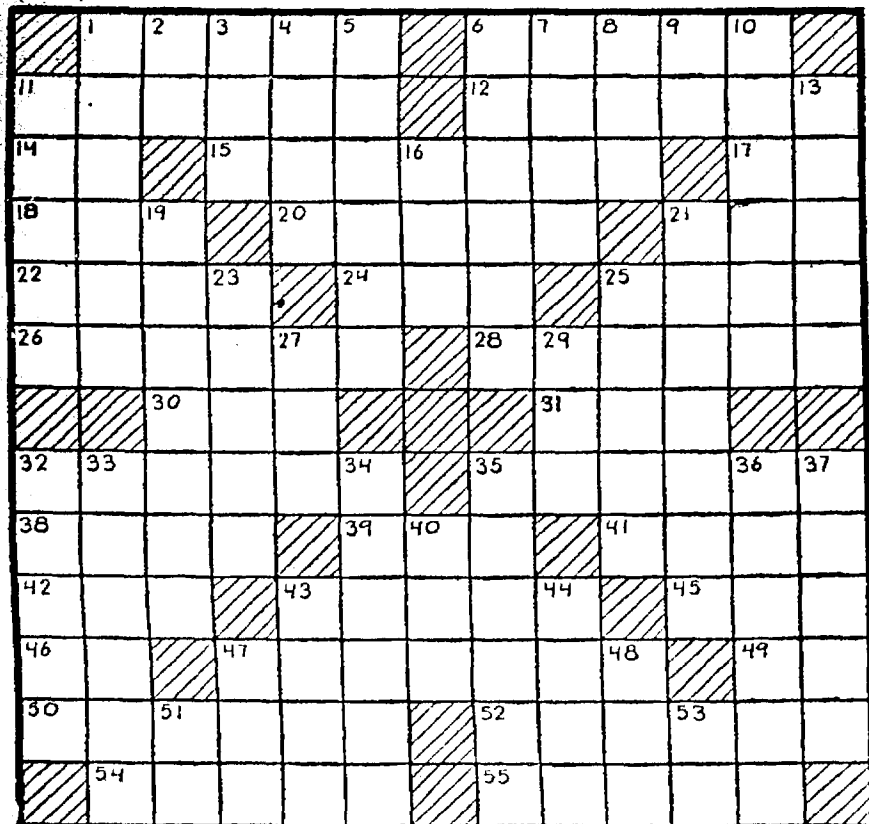

If kidneys don't empty 2 pints every day and get rid of 4 pounds of waste matter, your body will take up these poisons causing serious trouble. It may knock you out and lay you up for many months. Don't wait. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS... a doctor's prescription... which has been used successfully by millions of kidney sufferers for over 40 years. They give quick relief and will help to wash out the 15 MILES of kidney tubes.

But don't take chances with strong drugs or so-called "kidney cures" that claim to fix you up in 15 minutes, for they may seriously injure and irritate delicate tissues. Insist on DOAN'S PILLS... the old reliable relief that contain no "dope" or habit-forming drugs. Be sure you get DOAN'S PILLS at your druggist. © 1934, Foster-Milburn Co.

287 IN COUNTY DRAW AGE PENSIONS

$3,493 SUM COMING HERE

A total of 287 persons from Pickaway county are now on the old age pension roll of the state of Ohio, and more are being added at the rate of 100 a month, according to an announcement today of T. J. Krimm, investigator for the old age pension office for this county.

Those now drawing pensions get a total of $3,493 a month from the state treasury under the terms of the law passed by the people at the election last November. Investigator Krimm said.

In proportion to its population this county is getting its full share of benefits under the pension law. Reports on the number of pensioners in the entire state as compiled by M. L. Brown, chief of the division of aid for the aged of the state welfare department, show this:

12,000 IN STATE

Mr. Brown's report shows that there are approximately 12,000 persons now drawing pensions in the state, and that they get a total of about $180,000 a month.

"This is a very good record when all of the facts are considered. The pension law was passed less than a year ago.

Mr. Brown is now making a survey of conditions over the state and of the appropriation needs of the division.

"This, when the legislature holds its next regular session in January, 1935, instead of just getting a start on old age pensions, as would be the case already in existence—one which will have dispensed a total of about $3,000,000 in pensions by that time. Preliminary organization work will all be done, instead of taking up the first several months of 1935; and the legislature will have before it concrete suggestions for appropriations and any changes needed to strengthen the law, instead of estimates and guesswork."

As would be the case if emergency action had not been taken by leaders of the pension movement and Governor White last winter.

LACK OF FUNDS

"Our biggest handicap to date has been lack of funds for administrative purposes, which we expect the next legislature will remedy. Another drawback is that many persons were unfamiliar with provisions of the law, and we had to educate them on it.

"Despite these handicaps, through the energetic action of Mr. Brown, first as leader of the proponents of the pension law in the election last year, and later in behalf of the emergency appropriations before the legislature at a time when the state was faced with a serious shortage of funds and later as chief of the division, and through the sympathetic action of Governor White, the worthy needy aged of the state will receive approximately $3,000,000 in pensions this year, although they ordinarily could not have expected to start receiving benefits until 1935."

Numerous extortion letters and threatening notes have been received by Henry Ford and his son, but only once before was a man convicted. He was Waslov Simek, a Czechoslovakian, who served two years in prison on a charge of attempting to extort $1,050,000 from Edsel Ford on threat of blinding his wife and children.

Several purported plots to kidnap Edsel Ford or his children have been "uncovered," but as far as can be known, there was never an actual attempt to "snatch" a member of the famous family.

Coffee From Vine Seeds

South American Indians made a coffee-like beverage from the seeds of the guarana vine in the Amazon forest.

SUFFERING IN SILENCE

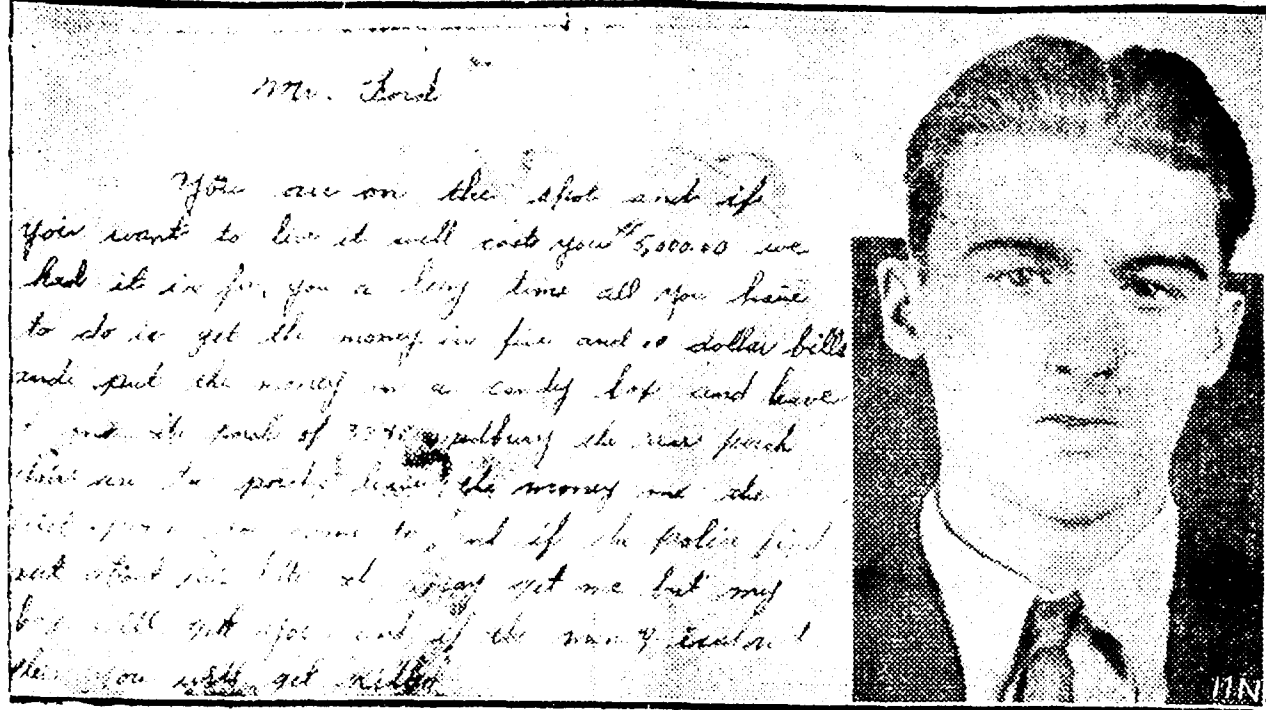

Unnecessary and preventable pain deserve little sympathy. Today, a "periodical sufferer" courts danger through the old-fashioned superstition, "pain is natural."

VATONA is the prescription of modern physicians to assure a natural painless period.

VATONA is absolutely harmless and fully dependable. Does not leave "brain-dullness."

Gets 10 Years for Threatening Edsel Ford

Fourteen hours after he had been picked up for sending a threatening note to Edsel Ford, son of the auto magnate, 20-year-old Edward Lickwala, Detroit factory worker, was sentenced to 10 years in Leavenworth prison. Above, are shown Lickwala and a reproduction of part of his extortion letter demanding $5,000 on threat of death to the younger Ford.

Mrs. Stoll's Captor Is Seen

decided to leave alone. He gave Mrs. Robinson $500 from the ransom sum and left in the same Ford V-8 car as he used in the kidnapping. It bore the Illinois license 331-700.

"Shortly afterwards, Mrs. Stoll telephoned her home in Louisville from the home of the Rev. W. Arnold Clegg where Mrs. Robinson took her after Robinson had fled."

Mrs. Robinson recovered from her hysterical condition displayed during her 20-hour interrogation by federal agents, appeared self-possessed but indignant.

She inquired of Jailer Martin J. Connors if her relatives had sent an attorney to represent her or if Mrs. Stoll was coming to visit her.

When arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Eugene Dailey, the kidnaper defendant pleaded not guilty to the charge of "Aiding and abetting" the crime.

"I don't know anything about it," she declared in a tense, shrill (and indignant) voice. "I want an attorney. And I would like to get in touch with Mrs. Stoll right away."

In asking the commissioner to place a high bail figure in the case, U. S. Attorney Thomas J. Sparks said:

"This is not an ordinary case. It is one in which the entire community has been shocked. We know that Mrs. Stoll was taken from her home and shamefully treated by the kidnaper."

HEARING OCT. 26

A hearing on the charge was set by Commissioner Dailey for Oct. 26.

In her public debut as the first principal arrested in the Stoll kidnapping case, Mrs. Robinson was dressed inexpensively but in good taste. She wore a blue-gray woolen suit with a jacket trimmed with a black fur collar. Her unbobbed black hair showed from beneath a chic, black turban with a white band around the crown.

She fingered nervously her black purse with long, thin fingers. The fingernails were painted red and indicated recent manicuring.

She attempted to screen her face from the artificial starlight created in the federal hearing chamber by the bursting of the photographers' flash-bulbs. She finally gave it up.

A shift of federal agents guarded the prisoner in the county jail during the night and day to prevent any attempt at suicide.

Mrs. Robinson expressed a wish after breakfast to see her mother. If the latter arrives from Nashville, the prisoner's request will be granted.

NO INTERVIEWS

Federal authorities turned down requests of newspapermen to interview the prisoner.

"I have learned from my brother that Mrs. Robinson was a very much-needed protector of Mrs. Stoll during her imprisonment and on the way home from Louisville," said George Stoll, brother of Berry Stoll, husband of the victim.

"She refused to participate in the ransom money and came to Louisville at her own very risk. The family is solicitous about her welfare and hopes she may be given every possible consideration. We feel she has been very fine to us."

U. S. Attorney Sparks was asked as to the reason Mrs. Robinson accompanied Mrs. Stoll on her homeward trip.

"She may have gotten cold feet or had a change of heart," he said.

The federal attorney said he had information to show Mrs. Robinson had arranged with her husband for the rental of the hideaway in Indianapolis several weeks before the kidnapping.

Sparks said that he planned to confer with Federal Judge Charles I. Dawson today regarding the calling of a special grand jury immediately to consider indictments.

He said he had not yet decided as to the exact penalty he would ask for Mrs. Robinson and her father-in-law in the event they were indicted and put up on trial.

"However, on the basis of the facts in the case against Robinson, I shall insist upon the death penalty," he added.

He pointed out that the Lindbergh law, under which the Robinson's are charged, originally at the minimum penalty as life imprisonment but through amendment added the penalty of death if the victim was harmed.

Sparks said he would ask the death penalty for Robinson because Mrs. Stoll had been struck on the head by the kidnaper.

Chief of Detectives Edward T. McElliott, of Louisville, was credited with first specific information concerning the identity of the kidnaper. When Thomas H. Robinson was named as intermediary in the ransom note, it was learned young Robin had been arrested previously in Nashville, had been employed by the Stoll Oil Refining company, and that his description fitted that of the kidnaper.

Fingerprints of Robinson found on the piece of brown wrapping paper which covered the piece of pipe with which Mrs. Stoll was struck, were taken to the department of justice in Washington and checked with the police fingerprints of Robinson in Nashville.
